A. Policy Statements

Required Prerequisites: Students required to take English Learning Support classes must enroll in a co-requisite course, ENGL 0999, and English 1101 during the same semester. Students whose SAT, ACT, or COMPASS scores have exempted them from taking English Learning Support classes are eligible to take ENGL 1101 without a co-requisite course.

30-Hour Rule: In accordance with Board of Regents policy, students must complete ENGL 1101 and ENGL 1102 before earning thirty hours of course credit.

Withdrawal Policies: Students are encouraged to read the withdrawal policy found at https://www.mga.edu/registrar/registration/drop-add.php before dropping/withdrawing from the class. Students may withdraw from the course and earn a grade of “W” up to and including the midterm date:
- Wednesday, 11 September 2019 for Short Session I
- Monday, 14 October 2019 for Full Session
- Friday, 1 November 2019 for Short Session II

After midterm, students who withdraw will receive a grade of “WF.” A WF is calculated in the GPA as an “F.” Instructors may assign “W” grades for students with excessive absences (beyond the number of absences permitted by the instructor’s stated attendance policy). Students may withdraw from a maximum of five courses throughout their enrollment at Middle Georgia State. Beyond the five-course limit, withdrawals result in “F” grades.

Exit Requirements: All students must complete ENGL 1101 with a grade of A, B, or C to proceed to ENGL 1102 and to receive Area A1 credit.

Regents Exemption: Students who complete both ENGL 1101 and ENGL 1102 with grades of A, B, or C have fulfilled the University System of Georgia Regents Reading and Writing Requirements.

Class Behavior Expectations and Consequences for Violations: Middle Georgia State University students are responsible for reading, understanding, and abiding by the MGA Student Code of Conduct. The papers may be retained by the service for the sole purpose of checking for plagiarized content in future student submissions.

- understand rhetorical contexts for their writing by establishing the writer’s role, the audience, and the purpose of the project,
- use recursive processes that include collecting information, focusing, ordering, drafting, revising, and editing,
- apply the techniques and skills of research, integration of source material, and documentation,
- read and respond to various texts for purposes of interpretation, analysis, synthesis, evaluation, and judgment,
- use conventions of writing mechanics, usage, and style to communicate effectively for the given audience, purpose, and format

(guidelines recommended by the Board of Regents Advisory Committee on English).

C. Definition of Plagiarism:

The following definition of plagiarism expands upon the Student Code’s description of plagiarism and has been adopted as standard by the English Department. For further explanation and illustrations, refer to the English Department’s “Plagiarism Definition,” available online at https://www.mga.edu/arts-letters/english/docs/Plagiarism_Definition.pdf.

1. It is plagiarism to copy another’s words directly and present them as your own without quotation marks and direct indication of whose words you are copying. All significant phrases, clauses, and passages copied from another source require quotation marks and proper acknowledgment, down to the page number(s) of printed texts.

2. It is plagiarism to paraphrase another writer’s work by altering some words but communicating the same essential point(s) made by the original author without proper acknowledgment. Though quotation marks are not needed with paraphrasing, you must still acknowledge the original source directly.

3. Plagiarism includes presenting someone else’s ideas or factual discoveries as your own. If you follow another person’s general outline or approach to a topic, presenting another’s original thinking or specific conclusions as your own, you must cite the source even if your work is in your own words entirely. When you present another’s statistics, definitions, or statements of fact in your own work, you must also cite the source.
4. Plagiarism includes allowing someone else to prepare work that you present as your own.

5. Plagiarism applies in other media besides traditional written texts, including, but not limited to, oral presentations, graphs, charts, diagrams, artwork, video and audio compositions, and other electronic media such as web pages, PowerPoint presentations, and online discussion postings.
