Mission Statement
Office of Student Life

The Office of Student Life supports the mission of Student Affairs and the University. Student life supports the retention, progression, and graduation of a diverse student body.

The Student Life Program:

• Offers diverse opportunities, activities and services which foster meaningful engagement outside the classroom. Students evolve by participating in social and cultural experiences that enhance their learning environment as they integrate the in-class and out-of-class experiences.

• Strives to promote an environment conducive to growth by offering programs that challenge and facilitate a student’s overall sense of community thereby allowing students to realize their fullest potential.

Position Statement on the Operation of Recognized Student Organizations (RSOs)

Middle Georgia State University recognizes the importance of co-curricular involvement in activities as a vital component of the University experience. The successful development and maintenance of a recognized student organization (RSO) is a primary element of student life. It is the position of the University that the free and open association of students through organizations with purposes and functions that are lawful and consistent with University objectives is necessary and desirable. The philosophical basis for student activities and organizations is to provide education in civic responsibility, leadership development, cooperation, independent thought and action, and participation in the rights and privileges afforded to all citizens.

Recognized Student Organizations (RSOs) Privileges and Responsibilities

1. Every student organization wishing to operate at Middle Georgia State University must apply for and secure official recognition status. RSOs must complete the registration process annually in order to maintain recognized status. Officially recognized student organizations shall have the following privileges:

   a. May use Middle Georgia State University’s name to identify institutional affiliation.

   b. May recruit members on campus.

   c. May use University facilities and equipment for meetings and functions, subject to University and Board of Regents’ policies and approval by the Office of Student Life.

   d. Will have access to publicity on Middle Georgia State University campuses.

   e. Will have equal access to the resources of the Office of Student Life.

   f. Will be eligible to apply for COA funding subject to Board of Regents’ policies, University regulations governing allocation of student activities fees, and availability of funds.
In order to obtain and maintain official recognition as an RSO, all Middle Georgia State University student organizations must:

a. Present evidence that all proposed activities will be in conformance with the stated purpose of the organization.
b. Present evidence that its purpose and activities are lawful and consistent with University objectives.
c. Present evidence that its membership is open to all eligible students, regardless of race, national origin, color, sex, age, religion, or disability.
d. Conduct its affairs in accordance with its constitution and University regulations.
e. Conduct its financial affairs in accordance with sound business procedures and appropriate University requirements.
f. Have a primary advisor who is a faculty or staff and who has the approval of his/her Dean or supervisor. All RSOs must maintain an active advisor to maintain active status.

Recognition shall be granted only to those organizations whose purpose and proposed activities are clearly related to the educational goals and missions of the University and of the Office of Student Life. Recognition shall be denied or revoked if any evidence presented shows that the proposed organization will present substantial likelihood of material interference or conflict with the educational process of the University or any of the following:

a. The regular and orderly operation of the University.
b. The requirements of appropriate discipline within the University community.
c. The academic pursuits of teaching, learning and other campus activities.
d. The laws of public policies of the State of Georgia and the United States.
e. The statutes and regulations of the University and the policies of the Board of Regents.
f. The operation of an existing Recognized Student Organization.

RSO Officer/Student Leader
Responsibilities and Expectations

The Middle Georgia State University Office of Student Life supports the additional time and energy that students serving as officers and leaders dedicate to their organizations. The staff of the Office of Student Life recognizes the importance of learning opportunities outside of the typical classroom and commits to working closely with all RSO officers, leaders, members, and advisors to ensure that these students receive the benefits of serving in such important roles.

As with all Middle Georgia State University students, the primary expectations of all RSO officers/leaders are integrity and civility.

All RSO officers/leaders are expected to read, understand, and abide by the Middle Georgia State University Student Code of Conduct, in addition to the policies and procedures outlined in this RSO Policies and Procedures Handbook.
All officers/leaders will be expected to work and communicate with the RSO advisor(s), as well as with the Office of Student Life, regarding all proposed events, activities and fundraisers. No event, activity or fundraiser will occur without the support and approval of both the RSO advisor(s) and the Office of Student Life.

All minutes of meetings should be accessible to anyone requesting access to said minutes.

The Office of Student Life reserves the right to request a meeting with the officers/student leaders and advisor(s) of the RSO sponsoring an event or activity, either before or after the event, to discuss how to improve future events, to discuss any problems that may have occurred during the course of the event, and/or to discuss leadership lessons that may have taken place.

Unauthorized or malicious damage to the property of the University or other persons or entities resulting from organizational activities is prohibited and the sponsoring RSO shall be responsible for any and all damage.

Any equipment or supplies borrowed by the organization should be returned to the office from which the equipment or supplies were borrowed in good, clean, and working order. Any damaged equipment will be repaired or replaced by the sponsoring organization. As with all aspects of event planning and fundraising, goal setting and appropriate preparation are the keys to success. The Office of Student Life supports and encourages proper event planning and preparation.

RSO Advisors

The role of the faculty/staff advisor is to promote student development, retention, promotion, and graduation occurring beyond the traditional academic classroom environment. This additional commitment of time and energy extends a great opportunity for personal growth for the advisor and the students.

It is the policy of the Middle Georgia State University Office of Student Life that all recognized student organizations have at least one faculty/staff advisor. The minimum criteria to be an advisor to an RSO are:

- The advisor must have the approval of his/her Dean, Department Chair, or direct supervisor via the Advisor Intent Form, which is then submitted to the Office of Student Life.
- Participation in a mandatory training session sponsored by the Office of Student Life and compliance with the policies and procedures reviewed in the session as well as outlined in this Handbook.

RSOs may have a community advisor, with the approval of the Office of Student Life. A community advisor is a person, outside of the University community, with an affiliation to an organization related to the functioning of the student organization. Community advisors will be expected to follow the same policies and procedures but have no financial or approval authority over the student organization. A community advisor’s participation does not supersede the responsibilities and expectations of the faculty/staff advisor.
Some organizations may meet frequently, which can be inconvenient to a single advisor. Therefore, it is recommended that more active organizations have more than one advisor, if possible. This will assure the group more attention from its advisors and permit the benefits of advisorship to accrue to other faculty and staff members. Co-advisors should maintain open communication with each other regarding the activities and status of the student organization.

As faculty/staff members serving as advisors to RSOs are assuming additional responsibilities outside of their original position descriptions, it is important that they know and understand the policies and procedures related to RSOs and maintain open communication with the Director of Student Engagement and the Office of Student Life on issues related to the student organization.

Responsibilities and Expectations of an RSO Advisor

The Office of Student Life views the position of student organization advisor as integral to the organization’s continued success. This is an exceptional opportunity to work with students in an environment outside the typical classroom and should be viewed in a serious manner. The Office of Student Life commits to making every effort to supporting, encouraging, and working with advisors as opportunities arise.

1. The advisor should ensure that all proposed organizational activities and communications are in conformance with the goals and mission of the organization, the Office of Student Life and Middle Georgia State University.
2. The advisor should be aware of the organization’s meetings and activities. He/She need not attend all organizational meetings, although attendance is encouraged. Advisor attendance at after-hours events sponsored by the organization and utilizing the facilities of Middle Georgia State University is a requirement of the organization being able to host the event.
3. The advisor should meet with the officers/student leaders of the organization on a regular basis (at least once a month). Meetings of this type are an ideal arena to establish a meaningful working relationship with the students and to exercise effective advising/mentoring.
4. The advisor should request minutes and an agenda for all organizational meetings.
5. The advisor should have complete officer contact information, to include addresses, phone numbers, and student email addresses. Likewise, the advisor should have an up- to-date list of all currently active members of the student organization and be able to provide this list to the Office of Student Life upon request.
6. The advisor should receive and review monthly financial reports from the organization’s treasurer. The advisor must also approve by signature or other agreement with the Office of Student Life, all COA allocations for the organization. The advisor should understand that under no circumstances will student activities funds be used to purchase or reimburse anyone for alcoholic beverages.
7. In the event that an RSO invites a guest/vendor to campus who is to be paid for services rendered, the advisor is responsible for securing appropriate documentation from the guest in advance of the proposed date of the service/event. All documentation should be submitted to the Office of Student Life for completion of agreement/contract and request of payment of guest, at least two weeks prior to the proposed event. Requests for payment of a guest or vendor that fail to follow this requirement run the risk of not being considered.
Documentation may include (but may not be limited to):
   a. A contract signed by the guest or vendor. RSO Performance Contract (No advisor should ever sign the contract.)
   b. A completed Supplier Authorization Form and W-9

8. The advisor should also review and approve all deposits of dues or fundraising monies into the organization’s agency account.

9. The advisor should encourage the officers/leaders of the organization to distribute written reports (such as financial reports or minutes of meetings) to the general membership on a regular basis.

10. The advisor should be knowledgeable of the organization’s purpose, constitution, by-laws, and mission statement and assist the membership of the organization in adherence to them.

11. Advisors for student organizations with agency accounts will be asked to sign an “Agency Fund Agreement” form each fall semester. This form re-states the advisor’s agreement to serve in an advisory role for the student organization as well as states they understand the need to comply with the business practices of the University in matters related to monies collected or distributed by the student organization. This form serves as a “signature card” for the Middle Georgia State University Bursar’s Office on all financial requests from the organization’s agency account. The Office of Student Life will be responsible for collecting and forwarding these forms to the Bursar’s Office.

12. While it is expected that an advisor will develop relationships with students, the University considers it inappropriate for faculty members and others in position to evaluate students to have amorous or sexual relations with those students currently enrolled in their classes or supervised by them. Furthermore, it is the responsibility of all advisors to avoid such relationships that result in conflicts of interest with students over whom they are in a position of authority by virtue of their teaching, research, committee assignments, administrative assignments, and advising.

Purpose of an RSO Advisor

In addition to the meaningful educational relationships that can develop between advisors and student organizations, there are other benefits to be derived from serving as an advisor:

1. Advisors can offer organizations their professional experience to assist in the growth and development of leadership within the organization.

2. Advisors provide a degree of continuity to student organizations whose compositions may necessarily change from year to year as new students enter and others graduate.

3. An advisor’s knowledge of University operations, policies, and procedures should enable them to assist organizations in facilitating organizational programs and the achievement of organizational goals.

4. As an employee of the University, the advisor is in a position to safeguard the University as well as the organization by working with groups, particularly the Office of Student Life, to assure that organizational programs and activities are educational in nature, that they contribute to the total educational mission of the University, and the organization is worthy of continuing recognition and association.

5. Advisors can and should guide the organization in its activities and its relationship with the University and with the Office of Student Life. Advisors should be a “compass” for the student organization, not the “rudder”.

6. Likewise, advisors should not set policy for the organization, but should take an active role in its formation through active interaction with group members.
Recognition of Student Organizations

Policy

The Office of Student Life will be responsible for assisting students interested in forming a new student organization or reviving a previously recognized student organization. Proposed student organizations should not duplicate or compete with existing student organizations with similar missions by campus. For example, it would be perfectly acceptable to have Phi Beta Lambda (PBL) on the Macon & Cochran campuses. It would not be acceptable to have two PBL groups on one campus. Recognition of student organizations will only be considered during two time periods:

- Fall Semester – from the first day of fall semester classes to the last University business day in September.
- Spring Semester – from the first day of spring semester classes to the last business day in February.

Special consideration for recognition of student organizations beyond these two time periods may be made at the recommendation of the Director of Student Engagement, and/or his/her designee.

Procedure

1. Students interested in forming a new student organization are encouraged to talk with a member of the Office of Student Life (Director of Student Engagement or Student Life Representative) to determine if a similar organization is already active, if a similar organization has been previously recognized and is currently inactive, or if the proposed organization fits the mission statement and goals of the Office of Student Life and of Middle Georgia State University.

2. Being that all student organizations should be student driven, the student(s) making contact with the Office of Student Life will be acknowledged as the student representative(s) of the proposed organization during the recognition process. Faculty members proposing a new student organization should identify student(s) to serve as the student representative(s) during the recognition process. The student representative(s) will be expected to abide by the policies and procedures set forth by the Office of Student Life, Middle Georgia State University and the University System of Georgia.

   All sports clubs fall under the authority of the Middle Georgia State University Recreation and Wellness Program. However, all sports clubs will be expected to follow the same guidelines, policies and procedures as all other recognized student organizations.

3. Should the student(s) decide to pursue official recognition of a new student organization or the reactivation of a previously recognized student organization, the student representative(s) and the faculty advisor will need to complete and submit four initial documents to the Office of Student Life. All forms must be submitted via email. Paper copies will not be accepted. Please note that these forms/documents are available at Student Life Documents and Forms and include:
• Advisor Intent Form – signed by the proposed advisor and his/her supervisor.
• Advisors for co-curricular organizations must come from the faculty of the specific school/division/department related to the organization.
• Application for Recognition (RSO) – give the basic information for the organization.
• RSO Proposed Constitution – the basic framework of the purpose and functioning of the organization; the sample constitution gives the basic information that the Office of Student Life requires of all student organizations. An electronic copy should be provided to the Office of Student Life.

4. All documents will be reviewed by the Director of Student Engagement, or his/her designee, who may make corrections/suggestions and then will approve or deny recognition.

5. Once a proposed organization is endorsed all documentation is retained in the Office of Student Life.

Provisional status will be given to all newly formed or re-activated student organizations for a period of one semester. During the provisional period, student officers/leaders and advisors must complete the mandatory RSO training session and must comply with the policies and procedures required of all recognized student organizations. If during this period there is no communication between the new organization (to include the advisor) and the Office of Student Life, an inactive status will be issued. Provisional RSOs will have the same privileges as officially recognized student organizations with limitations on applying for student activities monies.

6. After successfully completing one semester of provisional status, the student organization will be officially recognized.

7. If the proposed student organization does not receive recognition by either the Student Government Association or the Office of Student Life, the organization may appeal the decision to the Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs. The person hearing the appeal shall review all documentation and affirm, reverse, or modify the decision. The appeal shall be in such form as the Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs may require.

8. Exceptions to the recognition time periods can be made at the recommendation of Vice President of Student Affairs.
